

ABSTRACT

This invention relates to an improved component for a plasma processing system, and more particularly, to fasteners for internal chamber parts in a plasma processing chamber.

Further, this invention relates to a method of manufacturing such a fastener.